Lejeune Claims Q&A

1. Will this affect my VA benefits?

No. According to the Department of the Navy, "Claims filed under the Camp Lejeune Act do not impact benefits or programs administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs."

2. What can I recover?

The full value of your injury to include medical bills, lost wages, disfigurement, pain, suffering and inconvenience. Your spouse may also recovery for a loss of consortium due to your injuries. This could amount to a significant sum of tax free money.

3. If I do not get compensated, will I owe the attorneys anything?

No. The lawyers work on a contingency basis, meaning they only get paid if they make a recovery for you. Lawyers will never ask you for money. Any payment they receive will have been deducted from a settlement or payment on your behalf.

4. Is there a time limit?

There is a strict time limit that requires your claim to be filed with the Department of the Navy within two years of August 10, 2022.

5. How long will this take?

Once your claim is filed, there is a six month waiting period which is a legally required holding pattern. After the waiting period, your claim may resolve in months or years, depending on how many claims are filed.

6. What if someone is deceased? Will I have to open an estate?

You may have to open an estate, depending on your state of residence. We have personnel and resources to assist with this process.
